

Goonhilly Village Green

Dear Old Cornwall Societies,

I am emailing you with a couple of exciting developments from Goonhilly Village Green for your interest.

Our free programme of talks and workshops exploring the many historic layers of Goonhilly Downs is now published. Please see PDF attached, please let me know if you would like some flyers and posters to distribute.

Our next workshop will take place on Saturday 16th February, at The Museum of Cornish Life, Helston.

We would greatly appreciate it if you could share the event with your network and of course, come along if you can.

Please see information below and image attached, this has been released on our Facebook , Twitter and Instagram accounts, if you would prefer to like and share.

Thank you for your ongoing support.

Best wishes,

Amy Brocklehurst
Assistant Producer

Creative Writing Workshops

Saturday 16th February
The Museum of Cornish Life, Helston.
10.30am - 12.30pm - Family Workshop
1.30pm - 3.30pm - 16yrs+ Workshop

Stories for a long time ago. Stories for the far distant future. Stories for a long way away. Authorial Illustrator Phyllida Bluemel invites you to bring your Goonhilly tales, or unearth new secrets with your imagination to write new myths for faraway civilisations.

What would you say to a time traveller? What would you show an alien visitor? What will museum labels say in 5000AD?

Learn what happens when a Neolithic stone has a conversation with a satellite and a Post Office opens in space. Trace and translate wiggling radio waves and messages in morse. Create alphabets for aliens and codes for keeping in touch: cosmic creative writing, inspired by Goonhilly Downs.

Image credit: Museum of Cornish Life , Helston: Photography collection

<https://goonhillyvillagegreen.org/>